Hospice and Billings Funeral Home

Helping you and your family one step at a time.

The National Hospice Organization and its standards document recognizes the significant role of the funeral professional in collaborating with the hospice team at the time of death. At Billings Funeral Home we appreciate the trust that families and hospice workers place in us and we constantly strive to be deserving of that trust. At no time will family members be without support. The strong attachments and trust developed in one supportive environment (hospice) are shared and transferred to another (Billings FH) as the family moves through the process of dying, death and bereavement.

Our compassionate staff has become an integral part of hospice care by bridging the gap between the time of death and bereavement care. When you consider the philosophy of hospice and funeral service, it is clear why the continuum of care provided by our professional staff is a "natural extension" of hospice care. We work closely together with hospice caregivers in order to meet the total needs of families.

Plan for the Unexpected

Setting aside funds and leaving specific information regarding your own personal desires will greatly ease your family's burden of making decisions and is one of the best ways to help your family during their difficult time of grief and loss. Billings Funeral Home works with leaders in the financial services sector who provide safe, stable & sound solutions for the funeral industry. The funds are placed in an insurance policy, trust, or an annuity and remain there until the death occurs. Pre-payment also protects against inflation and price increases because no further charges are made on the items selected by you.

Ensure That Your Wishes Are Fulfilled

Funeral pre-planning is easy. Planning ahead is a gift of love that will pay off both emotionally and financially for you and your family. By planning in advance your family will not have to try and guess what arrangements you would have wanted. It's actually comforting to the people left behind, knowing that you had a say in your own last hurrah. The most important thing is that you're planning it the way you envision it to be. A personal stamp creates a memory, and memories are what we have after someone we love dies. Right now is the perfect time to take the first step towards protecting your family and ensuring that your wishes are fulfilled. Learn more about funeral pre-planning as well as our service and pricing options. We're standing by to take your call.
